

A-Core Container

Independent energy storage single project

Overview

The project is the largest network-type project in the global lithium iron phosphate battery energy storage route, which has set up the role of network-type energy storage demonstration and benchmark in the world, and has made positive contributions to the transformation of energy structure and the development of new power systems in Kezhou and even Xinjiang.

Independent energy storage single project

Contact Us

For catalog requests, pricing, or partnerships, please visit:
<https://a-core.pl>